Your nametape, located on the right breast pocket, should be centered both horizontally and vertically. The name should be embroidered in black, with the first initial and last name clearly visible. Your rank insignia is placed above your right breast pocket, centered both horizontally and vertically. Ensure that the insignia is straight and properly aligned. Incorrect placement of the rank insignia is a common mistake.

Ribbon Rack Placement

The ribbon rack is positioned on the left breast pocket, centered both horizontally and vertically. Ribbons are arranged in order of precedence, following established Army regulations. This means that the most prestigious awards are placed to the left, with subsequent awards arranged according to specific guidelines outlined in Army Regulation 670-1. Mastering ribbon rack arrangement requires careful attention to detail.

Unit Insignia (Branch Insignia) and Shoulder Boards

The branch insignia, indicating your specific military occupational specialty (MOS), is worn on the shoulder boards of your ASU. These are secured with buttons or snaps depending on the style of the uniform. Correct placement is critical to accurately reflect your role within the Army. The branch insignia should be correctly aligned and positioned on the shoulder board.

Other Insignia and Accoutrements

Beyond the major insignia components, numerous other elements may be added to the ASU depending on earned awards, decorations, or qualifications. These include combat badges, skill badges, and other special identifiers. These are typically arranged in a specified order, adhering to established Army guidelines. Properly wearing the ASU is crucial not only for preserving a professional look but also for displaying respect for heritage and the body in question. This handbook aims to offer a thorough understanding of ASU placement, ensuring you appear yourself properly on any event.

Understanding the Components: Before exploring into specific placement, it's essential to make oneself aware of the diverse components of the ASU. These consist of the jacket, trousers or skirt (for female service members), blouse, tie and tab, footwear, insignia, and other adornments. Each component has a specific location and function, and misplacing even one object can result in an inappropriate look.

Jacket and Shirt Placement: The coat should fit properly, not too slouchy nor too snug. The top should be pushed in entirely, ensuring a neat appearance. The collar of the shirt should lie smoothly beneath the neckline of the blazer. Any bulges indicate improper tucking.

Tie and Tab Placement: The tie should be tied accurately and positioned correctly at the thorax. The extent of the tie should be such that the point ends the upper part of the buckle. The tab, if worn, should be placed centrally immediately above the tie.

Insignia Placement: The placement of insignia is crucial and follows strict guidelines. Shoulder boards, rank insignia, and other decorations have designated locations. Incorrect placement can be considered as offensive. Referring to official defense regulations is absolutely required for accurate placement.

Trousers and Footwear: Trousers should be ironed neatly and put on properly, neither too extensive nor too short. The edge should lie evenly over the top of the boots. Shoes should be polished to an excellent standard. The strings should be fastened correctly.

Accessories and Overall Presentation: Accessories such as timepieces, circles, and wristbands should be limited and put on discreetly. The general appearance of the uniform should convey skill and esteem. Attention to detail is critical in achieving this.
